Introduction

In 1996, both Congress and the Kansas Legislature enacted sweeping changes in the laws governing telecommunications services in the form of the Federal Telecommunications Act of 1996 and the Kansas Telecommunications Act of 1996. The Kansas Telecommunications Act of 1996 sets forth specific, overarching public policy goals upon which the Act was constructed and which the Legislature intended to be accomplished. Those goals are to:

- (a) ensure that every Kansan will have access to a first-class telecommunications infrastructure that provides excellent service at an affordable price;
- (b) ensure that consumers throughout the state realize the benefit of competition through increased services and improved telecommunications facilities and infrastructure at reduced rates;
- (c) promote consumer access to a full range of telecommunications services, including advanced telecommunications services that are comparable in urban and rural areas throughout the state;
- (d) advance the development of a statewide telecommunications infrastructure that is capable of supporting applications, such as public safety, telemedicine, services for persons with special needs, distance learning, public library services, access to internet providers, and others; and
- (e) protect consumers of telecommunications services from fraudulent business practices that are inconsistent with the public interest, convenience and necessity. K.S.A. 66-2001.

Deciding whether these goals have been met, and thus, deciding that it is appropriate to grant price deregulation, is a matter of public policy. The original provisions of the Kansas Telecommunications Act of 1996 granted the authority to determine whether telecommunication services or exchanges were to be deregulated to the Kansas Corporation Commission (KCC or Commission). Over the years, there have been amendments to the statute intended to modify the manner by which to determine whether there is sufficient competition to warrant price deregulation. As a part of those amendments, the Commission has been required since 2006 to keep track of certain data for determining whether adequate competition exists to warrant price deregulation and report to the Legislature such data, with findings and recommendations where appropriate.

The statutory reporting requirements for the 2012 Report changed due to legislation passed during the 2011 session. The 2011 Kansas Legislature passed Senate Bill 72, which became effective July 1, 2011. K.S.A 2013 Supp. 66-2005, at subsection (q)(7), requires that the Commission:

(7) Prior to January 1, 2007, the commission shall determine the weighted, statewide average rate of nonwireless basic local telecommunications service as of July 1, 2006. Prior to January 1, 2007, and annually thereafter, the commission shall determine the weighted, average rate of nonwireless basic local telecommunications services in exchanges that have been price deregulated pursuant to subsection (q)(1)(B), (C) or (D). The commission shall report its findings on or before February 1, 2007, and annually thereafter to the governor, the legislature and each member of the standing committees of the house of representatives and the senate which are assigned telecommunications issues. The commission shall also provide in such annual report information on the current rates for services provided by all telecommunications carriers or other telecommunications service providers regardless of the technology used to provide service in price deregulated exchanges, service offerings provided by all telecommunications carriers or other telecommunications service providers regardless of the technology used and available in price deregulated exchanges and the number of competitors in price deregulated exchanges including, but not limited to, facilities based carriers, commercial mobile radio service or broadband based service providers.

Based on the foregoing, the Commission provides the following information regarding telecommunications services in Kansas:

- The Kansas telecommunication exchanges that have been price deregulated pursuant to K.S.A. 2013 Supp. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) or (D) (Section II);
- The statewide, weighted average price of “nonwireless” basic local service, residential and business, as of both July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2008 (Section III);
- The weighted, average price in the exchanges price deregulated pursuant to K.S.A. 2013 Supp. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) and (D) (Section IV);
- Information on the current rates and service offerings provided by telecommunications carriers in price deregulated exchanges (Section V); and
- The number of competitors in price deregulated exchanges including, but not limited to, facilities based carriers, commercial mobile radio service or broadband based service providers (Section VI).

Price Deregulated Exchanges

K.S.A. 2013 Supp. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) and (D) govern the price deregulation of exchanges for price cap carriers and that are the subject of this Report. K.S.A. 2013 Supp. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) and (D) state:

(B) in any exchange in which there are 75,000 or more local exchange access lines served by all providers, rates for all telecommunications services shall be price deregulated;

(C) in any exchange in which there are fewer than 75,000 local exchange access lines served by all providers, the commission shall price deregulate all business telecommunication services upon a demonstration by the requesting local telecommunications carrier that there are two or more nonaffiliated telecommunications carriers or other entities, that are nonaffiliated with the local exchange carrier, providing local telecommunications service to business customers, regardless of whether the entity provides local service in conjunction with other services in that exchange area. One of such nonaffiliated carriers or entities shall be required to be a facilities-based carrier or entity and not more than one of such nonaffiliated carriers or entities shall be a provider of commercial mobile radio services in that exchange;

(D) in any exchange in which there are fewer than 75,000 local exchange access lines served by all providers, the commission shall price deregulate all residential telecommunication services upon a demonstration by the requesting local telecommunications carrier that there are two or more nonaffiliated telecommunications carriers or other entities, that are nonaffiliated with the local exchange carrier, providing local telecommunications service to residential customers, regardless of whether the entity provides local service in conjunction with other services in that exchange area. One of such nonaffiliated carriers or entities shall be required to be a facilities-based carrier or entity and not more than one of such nonaffiliated carriers or entities shall be a provider of commercial mobile radio services in that exchange.

There are 570 telephone exchanges within the state of Kansas and 253 of those exchanges are served by the two incumbent local exchange carriers that elected price cap regulation, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company d/b/a AT&T Kansas (AT&T) and United Telephone Companies of Kansas d/b/a CenturyLink (CenturyLink). AT&T is the incumbent local exchange carrier in 134 exchanges and CenturyLink is the incumbent in 119 exchanges.

Over the nine years since the price deregulation statute (K.S.A. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) and (D)) was implemented, 59 exchanges were price deregulated pursuant to the aforementioned statute and all 59 exchanges are served by AT&T. Three AT&T exchanges (Kansas City, Topeka, and Wichita) have 75,000 or more access lines and thus were automatically deemed price deregulated on July 1, 2006, the effective date of the 2006 amendment. K.S.A. 2006 Supp. 66-2005(q)(1)(B). Forty-five exchanges have been price deregulated for both business and residential services following a demonstration by AT&T that the requirements of K.S.A. 66-2005(q)(1)(C) and (D) had been met for each of the exchanges. One exchange has been price deregulated for only business services following a demonstration by AT&T that the requirements of K.S.A. 66-2005(q)(1)(C) had been met. Ten exchanges have been price deregulated for only residential services following a demonstration by AT&T that the requirements of K.S.A. 66-2005(q)(1)(D) had been met. A full list of the price deregulated exchanges, together with Commission proceeding-specific information associated with the deregulation, is attached to this report as Appendix A.

Legislation passed during the 2011 Legislative session (Senate Bill 72) provides that any local exchange carrier with a majority of the carrier's local exchange access lines in the state price deregulated pursuant to subsection (q) may elect to no longer be regulated as a local exchange carrier and, notwithstanding any other provisions, upon such election shall instead be regulated as a telecommunications carrier. A local exchange carrier making such election shall be referred to as an "electing carrier." Pursuant to this statute (K.S.A. 66-2005(x)), AT&T filed a notification with the Commission on July 7, 2011, of its election to be regulated as an "electing carrier" effective October 7, 2011. Thus, effective October 7, 2011, all 134 of AT&T's exchanges were price deregulated.

K.S.A. 2013 Supp. 66-2005(q)(7) outlines the information to be included in this Report and it does not include the exchanges price deregulated pursuant to K.S.A. 66-2005(x), but rather focuses on the exchanges price deregulated pursuant to K.S.A. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) and (D). Thus, the 75 exchanges that were automatically deemed price deregulated on October 7, 2011, pursuant to K.S.A. 66-2005(x) are not included in this Report.

Weighted, Statewide Average Rate for Nonwireless Residential and Single-Line Business Service

Pursuant to K.S.A. 2006 Supp. 66-2005(q)(7), the Commission calculated the weighted, statewide average rate for nonwireless residential and single-line business service as of July 1, 2006. As will be more fully explained, this weighted, statewide average rate for "basic local telecommunications service"¹ is the indicator that was used in the statute to determine the effectiveness of competition in price deregulated exchanges. The data used for making this determination was derived from data requested of all incumbent local exchange carriers and competitive local exchange carriers regarding rates for basic local service and the corresponding number of access lines served. As reported in prior annual telecommunication reports, the weighted, statewide average rate for nonwireless residential and single-line business service as of July 1, 2006 is:

$15.53 for residential service; and
$26.37 for single-line business service.

K.S.A. 2006 Supp. 66-2005(q)(7) was again amended in 2008 by the passage of House Bill 2637. The amendment requires the Commission to calculate the weighted, statewide average rate of nonwireless basic local telecommunications service as of July 1, 2008. The Commission, again, sent data requests to all incumbent local exchange carriers and competitive local exchange carriers. From this information, the weighted, statewide average rate for nonwireless residential and single-line business service as of July 1, 2008, was calculated to be:

$15.85 for residential service; and
$27.74 for single-line business service.

¹ "Basic local telecommunications service" is a stand-alone telephone line without any additional features.

Weighted Average Rate in Price Deregulated Exchanges

The Commission is also required to determine and advise as to the weighted average rate of nonwireless basic local telecommunications services in exchanges that have been price deregulated pursuant to subsection (q)(1)(B), (C), or (D) on an annual basis. Therefore, the Commission calculated such rates for residential and single-line business service in AT&T's exchanges which have been price deregulated pursuant to subsection (q)(1)(B), (C) or (D). Table 1 is the result of those calculations. It is evident in Table 1 that AT&T faces more competition in some exchanges than others - and residential service is more competitive in some exchanges while business service is more competitive in other exchanges.

Information on Rates and Service Offerings Provided by Telecommunications Carriers in Price Deregulated Exchanges

Pursuant to the statute as revised by the 2011 Kansas Legislature, the Commission is required to provide information on the current rates and service offerings provided by telecommunications carriers or other telecommunications service providers regardless of the technology used to provide service in price deregulated exchanges. In order to accomplish this task, the Commission sent a request for data to all jurisdictional and non-jurisdictional telecommunications providers reportedly operating in the state of Kansas. The Commission does not have jurisdiction over many of the carriers (i.e., commercial mobile radio service providers) to which it sent the information request; thus, the responses received were limited to those it does have jurisdiction over and the non-jurisdictional providers who elected to cooperate. The information received is listed by exchange in Appendix B to this Report.

Providers listed may or may not actually serve customers in the exchanges listed, but are included if the provider indicated in its response that it offers service in the exchange.

Number of Service Providers in the Price Deregulated Exchanges

Table 2 below reflects the number of providers in the price deregulated exchanges including, but not limited to, wireline carriers, commercial mobile radio service and broadband-based service providers, as reported in 2013, 2014, and 2015. As is evident in Table 2, the number of providers in each exchange continues to grow. The reader should understand, however, that some providers serve only business customers while some providers serve only residential customers; some providers may require the customer to purchase a bundle while other providers may not; and some providers may provide service in only part of an exchange. Finally, the reader should understand that customers must have access to and purchase broadband service in order to subscribe to some of the Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) service offerings.

Conclusion

Advances in technology have allowed for new types of telecommunications service offerings and providers to enter the market. Many Kansans have access to telecommunications services via their traditional landline local exchange carrier, wireless carriers, VoIP providers, cable providers and some residents have access to satellite providers. However, although these technologies and deployment of such technologies have come a long way, not every Kansan has access to all of these services. Companies typically deploy services where it makes economic sense to do so, which is traditionally in areas with large population bases. Thus, although a provider may provide service in the “city”, residents outside of the city center may not have access to such services.

This Report provides information on only the 59 AT&T exchanges that have been price deregulated pursuant to K.S.A. 66-2005(q)(1)(B)(C) or (D) and is not necessarily illustrative of the status of competition in the entire state. However, overall Kansans continue to have greater access to new technologies, new offerings, and new service providers.
